MARDEN PRIMARY ACADEMY
Homework Policy and Guidelines

Aims of the policy

- To ensure a uniform approach to homework within the school.
- To ensure there is progression from one year group to another.
- To ensure pupils' needs are taken into account.
- To ensure parents and carers know what is expected of them and their children.
- To ensure too much of a burden is not placed on children, parents or carers.

The purposes of homework at Marden

- To consolidate and reinforce skills.
- To encourage parents/carers to be involved in the education of their child.
- To develop the existing home-school partnership.
- To encourage pupils to be increasingly well organised, self-motivated and self-disciplined.
- To make the most of parents' ability to motivate their children.

If homework has not been completed in Classes 1 and 2 the class teacher will discuss the matter with the appropriate parents.

In KS2, children are expected to be more responsible for their own homework and may miss break/lunch times to complete the work set.

Parents are provided with ways to support their child through the termly curriculum overview on the school website. The website also has useful web links to support their child's learning.
